The Tiger's Last Tale

With only an approximate 400 students enrolled at Tech in 1981-82—one fifth of the peak enrollment of 2000—and with a continuing knowledge that Tech's last year was rapidly coming to an end, Tech students found it was not always easy to keep spirits up.

Obstacles sometimes too large to overcome resulted mainly from the lack of an average enrollment. Some activities became unavailable to us, including a major sport—football.

Yet, we did what we could to keep the colors of Brown and Gold flying high; a long tradition of Tiger spirit came to the rescue and made 1982 a memorable and wonderful year.

The Poms worked hard to purchase new uniforms by holding paper drives and carwashes—a success!

The Cheerleaders, despite consisting of only five members, cheered enthusiastically and had the fans cheering along in no time at all.

Even though the number of basketball games we won were few, the loyal Tiger fans cheered enthusiastically to keep the spirit and morale of the team high.

Basketball Homecoming was a time to display school spirit and proved to be a success for many.

The Music Department also kept the morale of the student body high by inspiring them with their songs.

BYE BYE BIRDIE was Tech's last stage production. With a cast of 45, some experienced, some not, they worked eagerly toward opening night.

The Seniors carried on the activities that were made traditional in the years past.

The Student Council and other organizations like VICA, Home Economics, and Science provided structure and leadership to get important jobs done.

Despite a small staff, the Chart members met the five major deadlines and were able to publish the 1982 Chart!

Tech students were provided with adequate educational needs. Some smaller classes also gave the advantage of the student receiving more individual help.

Yet, there was an underlying feeling, a feeling of loss: we were experiencing Tech High coming to an end.

Tech gave us something that nobody can ever take away—the memories . . and for this reason, we will always be, deep in our hearts, Hammond Tech Tigers . . .

Mr. Ted Flack, the 1966 Industrial Coordinator, and Mr. R.M. Wilson, 1966 coach and health and safety instructor, talk with Mr. Hal Snyder (center), the "father" of the Tech Tiger and former track and assistant football coach, who had come for a visit.

The following is reprinted from a 1966 issue of the Tech Times:

COACH HAL SYNDER WAS 'FATHER' OF TECH TIGER

by Jim Wojciehowski

Did you ever wonder how Tech was given the name Tiger? Well, to find out, let's go back to the year 1925 when Tech was still on Russell Street.

Mr. Hal Snyder, track and assistant football coach at the time, was writing sports stories for the Hammond Times. But Mr. Snyder had a problem; every time he wanted to say something about what Tech did, he had to use a pronoun such as they, them, or those boys. So, being the good coach that he was, Coach Snyder set out to find an appropriate nickname for Tech. This did not prove easy. Then one day in 1926, while looking through a sports magazine, he saw a tiger which was gold with brown stripes, and since Tech's colors have always been Brown and Gold, Mr. Snyder thought this would be an appropriate symbol and nickname for Tech.

To see what the students' reactions would be, he asked his class and they enthusiastically gave their approval. Then he got the approval of Mr. Fred Barrows, the principal at the time, and of the superintendent of schools, Mr. Lee L. Caldwell.

It was done! Tech finally had a nickname and the new Tech Tigers were proud of it!

1919 to 1922— The Tiger Tale Began As Students Eagerly Responded To What Tech Had To Offer!

Tech students, right from the school's first days, seemed eager to train for jobs in this industrial community. When planners presented new courses, quick response for enrollment caused school population to grow from one student in 1919 to nearly 2000 students in the 1960's.

Course work was at first just part time to assist students who had to work. First offerings included such classes as blueprint reading and typing. Then came others—forge and foundry, machine shop, shorthand, business machines. Also flourishing over the years was an impressive array of academic classes, required and elective. On and on classes and shops were added until at its peak Tech offered nearly twice as much as the ordinary high school.

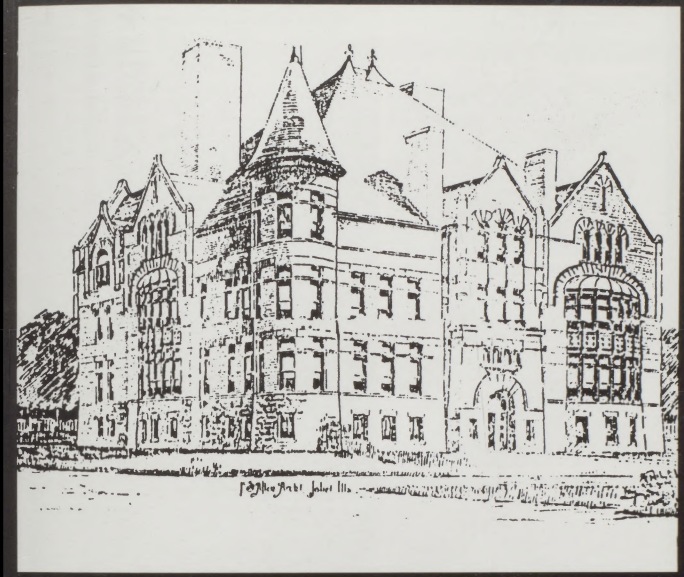
Tech also developed a highly successful athletic program. Its social life was enhanced by many extra-curricular organizations.

A chronology of important times in Tech's history follows on this and other theme pages:

1893—Hammond Central School was built on the corner of Hohman and Fayette where the Calumet National Bank now stands. It housed elementary . . . also high school students. When the high school outgrew this building, it moved to a new building on Calumet Avenue and was called Hammond Industrial High School, later shortened to Hammond High School.

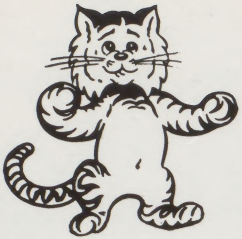
1919—Great need for a vocational school also became apparent. Mr. F.S. Barrows started a vocational school—later called Tech—in an attic room of the Central School. To begin with, there was only one teacher, Mary Dwyer, and one student, Max Demps. Demand for enrollment grew and so classes were organized for girls in the afternoons and for boys in the mornings. In those early days students went part time, two days a week.

Mr. Max Demps, Tech's first student as he was pictured in the 1959 Chart.



Fred S. Barrows was the founder and first director of Tech. At top of page is sketch of the Central School Building as it stood on the corner of Hohman Avenue and Fayette Street.

Mary Dwyer was Tech's first teacher.



1923 to 1949—Growing Student Body Trained in Increasingly Inadequate Facilities; Plans For a New Tech Took Shape!

1922—In September, Tech was formally organized.

1923—The Central School building was moved from the corner of Hohman Avenue and Fayette Street to 231 Russell Street where it was to house the "new" Tech high school.

1925—A new building was constructed in front of Central building and the two were connected only by a passageway. The Girls' Department occupied the new building and Boys' Department the old. Boys' and girls' classes were separated and remained that way until Tech was reorganized in 1959. Nineteen twenty-five was also the first year for a yearbook—then called the BROWN AND GOLD.

1926—Increasing enrollment necessitated the starting of Tech's Cafeteria.

1927-50—Continually increasing enrollment caused the school to "spread out." Auto shop moved across the alley; Sheet Metal and Plumbing shops moved to Fayette Street, and Auto and Aviation shops moved to a vacant building across the tracks on Russell Street. There were other "borrowed" buildings in Tech's life including gym facilities. Tech students and faculty dreamed of a new and adequate school building.

1933—Mrs. Barrows, wife of the principal, started a soup kitchen for needy students.

1934—Mr. Barrows in a radio talk: Tech objective was "the making of dependable men and women from boys and girls who enter at fourteen."

1939—State and local fire inspectors termed Tech a "fire trap." The need for a new building became more and more apparent.

1939—Hammond Times headline: See no funds for new Tech school building.

1940—Tech Varsity Basketball Team did the impossible: they won State Crown despite severely inadequate gym facilities.

1940—American Legion Post #16 presented Tech with an American flag and a school flag.

1941—The Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor. Many former Tech students went to war.

1941-45—Tech shops trained over 6000 persons for wartime industries . . . in "round-the-clock" instruction.

1945—The Indiana State Legislature acted to give definite assurance that there would be a new Tech building as soon as wartime restrictions on building materials were lifted.

1947—After much controversy, Civic Center site was picked for the new Tech.

1948—Ground breaking ceremonies were conducted.

1949—Cornerstone Dedication speakers included Patricia Evoy, president of Tech's Student Council; Mrs. Kreyscher, chairman of Tech P.T.A. Building committee, and Lee Turner, Tech alumnus.

This was Tech from 1923 to 1949. Boys attended classes in the building on left; girls in "newer" building. Site is now a parking lot.

In the background, to the southeast of the old Tech, the Civic Center can be seen. Note the vacant land where the new Tech was still to be built.

This is a view of old Tech from Russell Street. The building on the extreme right where the truck is parked is an ice-making plant belonging to the Hammond Pure Ice and Coal Company.

There were two lunch hours when the Cafeteria did business in the old building—one for girls and one for boys.

Machine Shop has always been an important part of the Tech curriculum for both day and night schools.

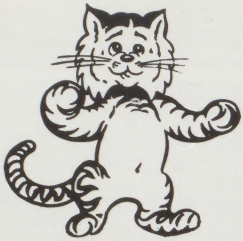
This girls' class in the late 40's was conducted by Miss Marie Landon, girls' co-ordinator (at the desk near the window), and by Miss Betty Rybolt, her assistant.



1950 To 1958— Tiger Spirit Prevailed Even in Overcrowded, Half-Completed Building Of The 50's

1950—In September, the "new" Tech was ready for occupancy . . . but only half the building was completed. Girls took the first two floors; the boys, the shop wing and the third floor. First students to enter the new $3,500,000 Tech building on first day of school were greeted by Mr. Fred Benson, principal, and Mr. Lee Caldwell, superintendent of schools. The students were William Hendon, president of the Tech Student Council, and Roberta Stirling, a freshman. Overcrowding set in almost immediately; soon some classes were conducted in the halls.

1957—Mr. Benson retired. Mr. H.H. Wilson replaced him as director.

1958—A record 600 parents and teachers joined Tech P.T.A.

Mr. Clarence Welty's Physics class was popular—especially with college-bound students.

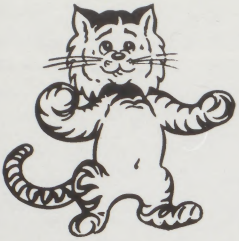
Tech's north half, including the auditorium and cafeteria, were completed in 1958. The part to the south was completed in 1950.

Left—Mr. Paschen conducts directed study in his boys English class. Right—Business Machines Shop was sometimes called Comptometry Shop because of the brand name of the machines used.

Overcrowding for most of the Fifties was accepted because it was felt the building would soon be completed. Pictured is a girls' class that was located in the hall by the north main staircase, second floor.

Center left—Parents and friends visited Tech's Aviation Engine Shop during American Education Week. During 50's, the shop was housed in an annex downtown. Left—For many years The Kettle was a favorite place for students and teachers to have a coke or coffee or to order a famous Kettle Burger.

Dances were popular in the 50's when the only place to have them was the gym.



1959 to 1981— Tiger Spirits Soared As 'Dream' School Became Reality! Curriculum Was Revised To Meet New Needs.

1959—More than 800 persons witnessed ceremonies dedicating the completed Tech building, April 19.

1959—Tech's curriculum was revised in this year that saw the building completed. Academic classes began giving a full credit rather than one half credit for a semester of work. Boys and girls classes were combined. New classes, especially science and math, ushered in a tough, new Technical Division.

1962—Tech's enrollment was 1862, an increase of 210 students over the previous year.

1963—Tech enrollment stood at 2009, a new record.

1963—President Kennedy was assassinated; the Nation mourned.

1963—Mr. William Parson became principal. Mr. H.H. Wilson retired.

1965—A testimonial dinner honored Mr. Gerald Kackley.

1965—Tech guidance program was reorganized to include five full-time counselors.

1966—Students conducted drive to send gifts to Vietnam servicemen.

1967—Super snowstorm dumped 23 inches; no school for a week.

1969—New intercom system replaced the old phone system.

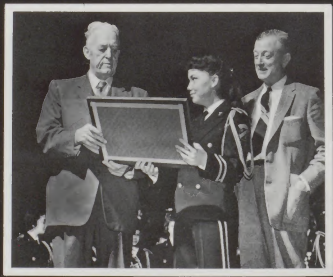
1972—Mr. Parson retired. Ronald Carter became principal.

1974—Mr. Walter B. Simpson became principal.

1976—Mr. Simpson and students raised the Bicentennial flag.

1979—City schools experienced national phenomenon of continuing decline in enrollment.

1981—Hammond School Board voted to close Tech and to have the building converted to a career center.



In 1959 assembly, Alpha Hendon, president of Student Council, presents Mr. Lee Caldwell, superintendant of schools, with a plaque in appreciation of his dedication to Tech's birth and life. Mr. Wilson looks on.

Below left—Mr. Benson delivered the Tech history during the Dedication program April 19, 1959, in the new auditorium. Below right—The student hall monitors served Tech very well for many years.

The new Tech building was completed when the north wing, cafeteria and auditorium were built.

For years familiar sights on playgrounds in Hammond have been bicycle racks made by Tech Welding Shop students.

Study Halls were an important part of the day for many Tech students it was for these 1963 scholars.

Ron Vincent, Miss Inga Erickson R.N., Carol Parento, and Mr. R.M. Wilson, safety supervisor in the 60's, admired the Safety Award which was presented to Tech by the Calumet Industrial Safety Council.

Tech students, caught in this 1965 moment of victory, have always cherished Tiger Spirit.

1942 Senior Class play was "What a Life." Because Tech did not have an adequate place to have such a production, Hammond High stage was used.

1927—Band was organized with 15 members, won Sectional contest as a Class D band. It was directed by Mr. Hovey. There was much "band spirit."
1933—Band, now in Class A, went to its first National contest and placed in second division.
1940—Chart theme was "The New Tech." Because of war-time restrictions there were no Charts published until 1945.
1946—Tech newspaper called the Tech Telescope was started.
1952—Tech's newspaper was begun anew as Tech Times.
1953—Two ensembles won firsts in Northern Indiana music contests.
1959—Tech Spectacular (amateur show) marked the first use of new auditorium by students.
1960—Tech Times staff raised money to buy school's first offset press and produced school's first regularly printed newspaper.
1962—Homecoming parade had 127 cars.
1963—For second year in a row, Tech Times was chosen the best high school newspaper in the Hammond Times circulation area by the Times's editors in their annual high school newspaper contest.
1965—Band members received new uniforms.
1965—Ron Berry was elected president of the American School Red Cross of Hammond.
1966—VICA was organized at Tech.
1968—Speech Team won their first team trophy. Outstanding speakers were Gaye Watwood, Mark Lee, and Judy Reel.
1970—Tech ensemble won a first in State music competition. Nancy Reed, soloist, took first in State.
1971—Folk Singers earned their way to Europe . . . "wowed" Europeans with their singing.
1978—Student production of JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR was a "smash hit."

. . . It's So Hard

To Say Good-Bye!

Students on Tech's last day, June 4, 1982, said reluctant good-byes to classmates and teachers—and thus said good-bye forever to Tech as a high school. When the end came, Tech Tigers took the good-byes in stride and, as for underclassmen, they stepped out to new life as students in other schools. Once a Tiger—however—always a Tiger; these students took their place with the thousands who are proud to say that they went to Tech!

Friends Remembered

The five that have died within our years
Create the silence and the tears.
Though their lives had just begun,
They are now in heaven, and,
Oh, so young—
One day laughing, the next day gone,
Never to see another dawn,
To never again blink their eyes,
Or see another sun to rise,
Folks we've passed by every day,
And never thought they'd go away.
What their futures were they could only guess,
Their futures have ended, for now they rest.

Even though we didn't have a football team, we still had Spirit Week from October 19-23. Monday was Autograph Day. Students signed each other and anything else that could be written on. Tuesday was Sports Day. Students dressed up in athletic attire. After school a tug-of-war and a three-legged race were held. Wednesday was Western Day. Students dressed up like cowboys and Indians. The girls Powder Puff game was held after school—senior girls vs. junior girls. The seniors were victors. Thursday was 50's Day. Students were transformed into "greasers." Student Council sponsored a soc hop after school. Friday was loyalty day. Students wore Brown and Gold to show school spirit. A dance was held that night.

Bye Bye Birdie

Tech's last musical play, BYE BYE BIRDIE, was performed on April 1st and 2nd along with a pre-opening show on March 31st for middle school students.

BYE BYE BIRDIE is a take-off on the life of Elvis. With such songs as "Telephone Hour," sung by all the teenagers on the glories of getting pinned, "One Last Kiss," which Conrad was supposed to give Kim and didn't, and "Put on a Happy Face," which can cheer up everyone, the show turned out to be fun for all who were there.

Students from all around the school joined the choirs this year in the kind of dedicated hard work it takes to put on a show.

Basketball Homecoming —1982—

A Tech tradition came to an end as the Tech Tigers played the E.C. Roosevelt Rough Riders in the final game of the season.

We played a tough, hard and great game even though we were not victorious.

To highlight this years game, the half-time festivities included the announcement of our 1982 Homecoming Court and the presentation of their honors. The Pom Pons also did their routine to "Our Lips are Sealed."

In this final year for Tech, it was hoped that underclass team members go out next year to show all their Tiger spirit.

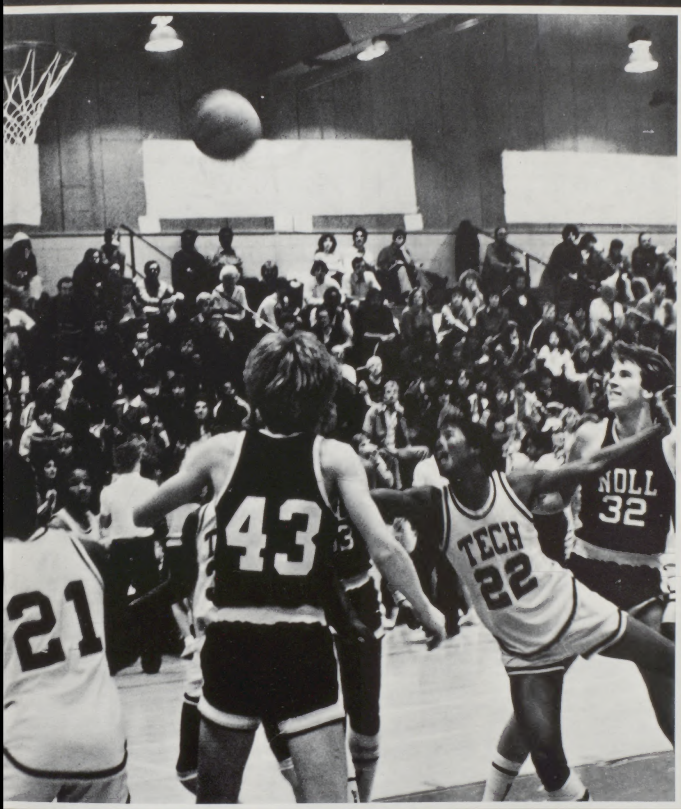
The Tiger's Last Tale . . .



. . . In Sports

Cagers Fought Hard; A Tradition!

The Tigers ended our last basketball season with the kind of fight that has been a Tech tradition. Though hard fought, the season ended with a 3-19 record. Highlights of Tigers' victories were the 64-63 win over Gavit Gladiators in the first game of the Sectionals. Then in our 2nd Sectionals game, Hammond High was the victor, 80-63. The victories of our Tiger team were River Forest, 65-58; Griffith, 65-61; and Lake Station, 50-46. A lot of credit is due to our '82 basketball team for their dedication and struggle.

Girls Rebound With 3 Wins in Basketball

The Girls' Basketball Team played one of their hardest seasons in 1981-82. Our senior girls, all of whom played four years, received awards at the Winter Sports Social. Cox, Chase, and Hemphill received most valuable player awards and White received an award for the most rebounds. Also, M. White, junior, received the award for the best mental attitude.

Coach Thompson said that he was very proud of the team this year. Our basketball record was 3-12 with wins over River Forest, West Side, and Clark.

Three Wrestlers Won in Sectionals

In 1981-82, Tech had three senior wrestlers who placed third in the Sectionals: John Emigh, John Larson, and Mike Lopez (HWT).

John Boswinkle had the best record of the year, 5-7. During the Winter Sports Social, our wrestlers received awards that included John Boswinkle, most valuable; John Larson and Mike Lopez, best mental attitude, and Tony Flores, most improved.

Coach Wesley commented that we had an inexperienced team in the early part of the season, but that there was a great deal of improvement by the end of the season.

It was a strenuous but worthwhile track season for both the Boys' Team and the Girls' Team. Our track members went through strenuous workouts everyday after school. Our Boys' Track Team ended up with a 2-9 record . . . with victories over Whiting and Lake Station. One of our senior rookies was Mike Lopez, who threw the shot-put over 40 feet in his first year, and a returning runner from last year, James Campbell, who had to triple, ran the half mile, one mile, and the two mile.

Our Girls' Track Team also ran a hard season. A sophomore, Moneen White, got into the final conference meet for her first year running hurdles.

Girls and Boys Tennis—What a Match!

Our 1982 Boys' Tennis Team consisted of 6 to 7 players. Wayne Morrison and Jeff Rodgers (doubles) won 5 matches. The team itself won 2-7 with the wins over Gavit, 3-2 and Whiting, 3-2. With the lack of players, our team played fairly well.

Our 1982 Girls Team pulled a hard season. Our girls, all rookies except Junior Trenda Oller and Senior Leslie Vargo, won numerous matches but failed games themselves.

Kittenball Began in 1928—Baseball Ended in 1982

A sport that began in 1928 which started as intramural "kittenball," in 1982, after 54 years, ended with this baseball season. We had a fair season, also a lot of new players and some returning ones from the last year: Wayne Micka, Jeff Rodgers, Dale Darnell, Brian Dunn, and Frank Chance. "We didn't have a lot of support," players said, "but what we had they gave all they could." The Baseball team started off hitting a losing streak with 8 games in a row, but ended playing a fairly good season.

Outstanding Tiger Athletes Were Honored by Tech in 1982

The Tech Athletic Department honored its outstanding athletes twice during the year—once during ceremonies at the Winter Sports Social in March and again during the All-sports Banquet in June.

Below—At the Winter Sports Social, four Varsity Basketball members were named outstanding—D. Webb, A. Brown, T. Doty, I. Collins. Center—Outstanding in Junior Varsity Basketball were T. Harris, C. 1920—Mr. Flack instructed a new Forge Shop beneath rear stairs of the old building.
1921—First shops for girls were shorthand and typing. One typewriter was shared by both office and students.
1927—Mr. Benson reorganized and instructed Drafting Shop.
1953—Karl Foote was the winner of the Optimist Club Speaking Contest.
1954—Ronald Millies, drafting student, took second in national contest sponsored by Ford Motor Co.
1954—Jim Galinsky drew the blueprints for Mr. Robinson's new house.
1959—Jerry McCoy placed first in Chicago Area Science Fair.
1959—Tech's two aircraft shops, engine and airframe, were the only FAA approved high school aviation shops in the State.
1960—Gerald Carpenter, pattern shop student, won two certificates of design and craftsmanship in Fisher Body Design Contest.
1962—Bob Golem and Gary Adkins—chemistry students—analyzed soil for the Board of Education.
1962—Mr. John Wagner's history class used TV for instructional purposes for the first time in Tech's history.
1962—Jim Rutz, drafting student, drew plans for Civil Defense planners.
1963—For tenth year in a row, Tech social studies classes had supported Korean orphan with money.
1963—Distributive Education was introduced to Tech for the first time.
1964—Calumet Industrial Safety Council presented Tech with an award of safety.
1965—First year for Food Service Shop.
1966—ICT was begun . . . also a class in alterations.
1966—A ten-year study of 1955 graduates revealed that two thirds of the students who had trained in trades shops were working in jobs directly related to their Tech training.
1976—Kenny Campbell and Mike Vargo won national advertising writing contest sponsored by Scholastic Voice magazine.
1978—Tech Building Trades program built its first house.

There were only girls in this English class. Back in Tech's early days classes were never mixed.

The Tiger's Last Tale . . .

. In Shops & Classes

Printers, Draftsmen Made Lines On Paper

All phases of offset printing were learned first hand from experience with three presses, a 24" engraving camera and other equipment associated with printing. Drafting shop students trained for jobs in industry or more college training in such majors as construction technology or architecture.

Auto Students Trained In 2 Shops

Tech Auto students trained in two shops. In Auto Service they learned the parts of an engine and then were allowed to do such things as put on new brakes, shocks, and other minor repairs. They could continue in this shop after the year or go to Auto Mechanics Shop where their work became more involved. Advanced students did everything from tune ups to overhauling engines. Many Tech graduates have been placed in area auto shops as mechanics.

Three Shops Cooperated In Training

Students wanting to train in some area of industrial electricity, electronics, or home appliance repair were allowed to spend six weeks in each of those shop areas to find the shop training for which they were best suited.

If a student became a full-time Electronics Shop student, he was given an opportunity to develop marketable skills required to succeed in the electronics field which includes radio, television, and controls common in industry.

An Industrial Electricity Shop student developed marketable skills for a job in the electrical field. Work was done on electric motors, generators, control devices, accessory equipment, and electrical test equipment.

A Home Appliance Repair Shop student learned to repair portable and major appliances. First step was to understand basic electricity and basic mechanics. He then went on to more advanced work while developing troubleshooting techniques.

Building Trades Shops Did Remodeling

Tech shops in 1981-82 cooperated as they have in the past in the building trades program. As an example, students from Tech went to Mount Zion Baptist Church to do such remodeling jobs as putting in light fixtures by the Electric Shop, installing heating and air conditioning ducts by Sheet Metal Shops, and paneling and putting in a drop ceiling by the Building Trades Shop. Other remodeling jobs were also accomplished.

Students Sought Careers In Four Metals Shops

One of Tech's strong areas of shop instruction down through the years has been metals. Career-minded students in 1982 made Welding, Pipefitting, Machine, and Sheet Metal popular shops. Foundry was discontinued in 1981.

Students Earned and Learned in 3 Co-

Juniors and seniors had the chance in 1981-82 to earn while they learned. Students on the Industrial Co-operative Training Program (ICT) worked in area industries and businesses; those on the Distributive Education Program (DE) performed duties as salespersons in area stores, while seniors in the Co-operative Office Education Program (COE) received training in area business offices. All "co-op" students took a class related to their jobs. The class presented theory that complemented experience gained on the job.

Special Needs and Bindery

SPECIAL NEEDS: Students received instructions in the areas of plumbing and carpentry in Mr. Buckleys classes. The plumbing portion dealt with galvinized pipe, faucets, sinks, and drains. The carpentry dealt with wall boards, repairing walls, fixing frames and doors. BOOK BINDERY: Book Bindery provided a service for the School City and the general public. Students learned the basic fundamentals of binding, such as lay-outs, styles, and stamping (art work on covers). They also rebound and refurbished books.

Care of Home And Family Was Stressed

In Home Economics classes, students were taught ways to care for home and family. Included were many of the everyday activities students would find necessary in their future lives. There were classes in Child Development, Housing, Family Health, Foods, and Clothing.

Below—Karen Lockett sews a garment during Clothing class. Right—Theresa Frazier concentrates on the lines as she cuts out her pattern in Clothing class. Bottom left—T. Virosko, P. Sanders, F. Business Students Worked With Computer Equipment

New computer equipment, installed in the School City Data Processing Center, was made available in 1981-82 to students studying computer programming. Mr. Mazura was their instructor.

Data Entry classes, taught by Mrs. Sohacki, were also available to students who wanted to train for jobs in a rapidly-expanding field.

The Business Department also conducted classes in filing, typing, accounting, shorthand, and business machines. Co-operative Office Occupations and Distributive Education were important and popular areas of training during the year.

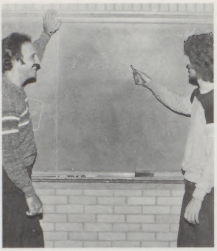
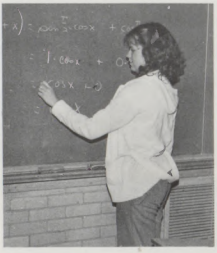
Math Classes For Everyone; Science Too!

Math, a major factor in just about every high school, was especially important at Tech in 1981-82; there was available a math course for every need—general math, business math, shop math, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry. Though this was Tech's last year, biology for many students was an important factor; for others it was general science.





Top left—Gary Sweeney and Mr. Cappelletti figure out a problem in Shop Math 3. Top right—Grace Jasso and Norma Enriques show the business math class how it's done. Social Studies Dealt With Past, Present Social Studies students at Tech in 1982 had a chance to learn about different religions, political ideas, economic systems and governments of other nations and the U.S. Besides points of special interest, social studies classes participated in various routine classwork such as oral reports on current events in Government and World History and explored history from the Dark Ages up to the present.

Top Right—Mrs. Aaron points out an article in the newspaper to Paul Lockett and Rose Ezell in Social Studies. Each Student Had English Class in '82

English classes in Tech's last year still held a prominent place in the Tech curriculum, every student needing an English class each of his eight semesters in school in order to graduate. Reading lab and speech class were important elements in the curriculum. Communication skills were also enhanced during instruction in composition and literature.

TECH'S VICA CLUBS

VICA, short for Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, is a national organization with 13,000 clubs and 300,000 members, Tech having seven chapters active in 1981-82.

The chapters sought to promote career growth, good citizenship, and a recognition of the importance of job skills. VICA members also aimed at helping improve community life and becoming better acquainted with leaders in business and industry. VICA motto is "Preparing for leadership in a world of work."

Tech's seven chapters were in auto, carpentry, electric, drafting, foods, printing, and welding.

The shield, in the VICA emblem at left, represents patriotism; the torch, knowledge; the orbital circles, technology; the gear, industrial society, and the hands represent youth.

NURSE'S AIDES

Serving the school by assisting the nurse was a task that needed time, care, and concentration. The Nurse's Aides were instructed by the nurse to help her in the business of the nurse's office. They did such things as take temperatures, fix cuts and abrasions, file, and run errands. They were also schooled in the techniques of first aid.

SAFETY REPRESENTATIVES

Once a month Safety Representatives met to learn how to assist shop teachers and students in matters of safety while in shop and school. Safety instruction also touched on safety in the home. Representatives were chosen from each shop class along with an alternate who assisted the representative and who substituted for him if he were absent.

A.M. SAFETY REPRESENTATIVES: Front row (l to r)—J. Vacracos, M. Breshock, J. Woods, A. Cash, B. Dewitt, J. McBrayer, G. Robinson, R. Worland, M. Lindsley, J. Rodgers, F. Chance, J. Rivera, R. Take a Good, Hard Look at Tomorrow, Today!

Because tomorrow is just around the corner, and your future will depend a lot on the decisions you make today.

Your career goal is probably the single most important decision you'll make, so consider it carefully. Consider your interests and skills, and then consider working for a company that will allow you the opportunity to develop and use them effectively.

At Inland Steel we like to bring out the best in people. We do it through training programs, and by offering growth potential. We need solid employees on the production lines, in the craft apprenticeships, in our laboratories, and in the offices.

We've built a strong reputation as a first-rate steelmaker, and we built it with the help of our employees. But we don't rest on past laurels. Like you, we're looking at tomorrow.
